

HUNT VALLEY
BUSINESS FORUM

Professional Dress – Hard Facts About Soft Skills
Meet Chris & Kim

Christopher Schafer
Christopher Schafer Clothiers
Sharp Dressed Man

Christopher Schafer wants you to look your best for every one of life's great occasions. He takes pride in his work and feels that every garment that he creates is a direct representation of himself. Christopher makes sure that all the details are correct and that you get the best fit possible. Christopher founded Sharp Dressed Man. Sharp Dressed Man empowers men to improve their lives - equipping men in the Baltimore and LA areas who are preparing for work through job training programs with recycled suits for job interviews. Our professional presentation program gives men confidence and a professional look as they prepare for job interviews. We bridge a critical gap between job development programs that provide training and the remaining skills and look needed to be considered for and obtain employment. Sharp Dressed Man is the only program of its kind in the area.

Professional Dress – Hard Facts About Soft Skills

Meet Chris & Kim

Kimberly Klacik
Potential Me

In between DC and Baltimore City, as a nonprofit Executive Director working with underserved communities and a political analyst hanging with politicians, Kimberly witnesses both sides of the economic spectrum. Potential Me is an organization supporting women with professional wear entering the workforce for either the first time, or after a hardship. Along with teaching soft skills and hosting seminars in various Baltimore City Public Schools, Potential Me is considered workforce development. Kimberly is a former pageant girl, a wife, and most importantly a mother. She is recognized for her work by "Charity Meets Style" as Local Influencer for the state of Maryland, "Women in Business" by Baltimore Magazine in 2014, "Black History Hero" by MWMCA in 2015 & "Women Who Move Maryland 2018" by Baltimore Magazine.